Simplify and streamline your investigative management to resolve cases faster

Managing your evidence from intake to review and final report can be unnecessarily challenging – spending time entering the same data into different systems, using portable media to share evidence, waiting for physical deliveries of evidence, or dealing with workstations that crash from file downloads. Adding additional concerns, law enforcement agencies are now seeing that removable media is often not up to the task of long-term storage. These inefficiencies can result in needless delays, mishandled or lost evidence, an investigation moving on before the evidence is reviewed, or a declaration of mistrial.

As digital evidence per case continues to grow, running defensible, compliant and ethical investigations while accelerating time to evidence, requires new best practices.

Cellebrite Guardian solves these issues for your agency and can be used end-to-end across the whole investigative workflow or flexibly within your existing ecosystem.
